HOMELESS PREVENTION RAPID REHOUSING PROGRAM

What is HPRP and how is it funded? (program purpose and funder)

The purpose of Homelessness Prevention and Rapid Re-Housing Program (HPRP) is to provide homelessness prevention assistance to households who would otherwise become homeless—many due to the economic crisis—and to provide assistance to rapidly re-house persons who are homeless as defined by section 103 of the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 11302). It is funded by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) legislation from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Who can the program help? (target population)

The funds under this program are intended to target two populations of persons facing housing instability: 1) individuals and families who are currently in housing but are at risk of becoming homeless (prevention), and 2) individuals and families who are experiencing homelessness and need temporary assistance in order to obtain housing and retain it (rapid re-housing). It is estimated that 360 households will be assisted through these efforts.

What type of help can they receive? (program services)

Prevention efforts will focus on currently housed families needing only short term or emergency housing support in the form of one-time rental/utility assistance. Re-housing assistance efforts will focus on individuals/families needing only limited temporary financial assistance/stabilization services by providing rental/utility assistance and other needed services necessary to rapidly re-house newly homeless families and individuals primarily affected by the economic downturn. To assist with housing stabilization, case management and other services will be offered to determine sustainability options beyond program termination and to ensure no future reoccurrences of homelessness.

What do they need to apply? (eligibility requirements)
